The Inca Trail

The Inca Trail is a network of trails that was built by the Inca Empire in the 15th century. The trail stretches for over 2,500 miles, and it connects the city of Cusco with the ancient city of Machu Picchu. The Inca Trail is one of the most popular trekking destinations in the world, and it is estimated that over 50,000 people hike the trail each year.

The Inca Trail is a challenging trek, but it is also an incredibly rewarding experience. The trail offers stunning views of the Andes Mountains, and it passes through a variety of ecosystems, including cloud forests, rainforests, and high-altitude grasslands. Along the way, trekkers will see ancient Inca ruins, including the Sun Gate, which marks the entrance to Machu Picchu.
